"Would have been nice to hold our third consecutive day of gains, but it just didn't happen."

ALERT: Widespread Negative Reprices Now Likely

The Euro just spiked back to 1.104 after being as low as 1.092 early today. That's a big move for Euros and it's dragging Treasury yields quickly higher. There are rumors circulating about a new Greek deal, but details are sketchy.

Either way, 10yr yields are back up to 2.26 and Fannie 3.5s are back to +0-01 on the day. That's more than a quarter point lower than most lenders' rate sheet print times, making negative reprices likely in most cases.

Responsive service, experienced expertise

I've dedicated my 26 year mortgage career to client education, superior service, and honest answers. The lending landscape has changed dramatically the past few years, and continues to do so. My job is to ensure client partners' loans close quickly, without surprises, and I take that responsibility very seriously. Referrals are a responsibility I appreciate; they're a measure of trust, and that trust must be earned every day, on every referral.
