UPDATE: A Chart Showing Why Today's ISM Data is Serious

Just an addendum to the previous update, showing what today's ISM numbers do to the bigger picture. While we have seen several reports fall this much month-over-month, today's is by far and away the biggest loser over a 3-month time frame (lower section of the chart). It is 4.8 points lower vs October's report. The next closest contender was Nov 2013, which only managed a 2.6 point gap. Translation: yes, it makes sense to worry about a big picture shift in the economic cycle AND the possibility that Fed is up a creek in terms of what they can do about it.

Responsive service, experienced expertise

I've dedicated my 26 year mortgage career to client education, superior service, and honest answers. The lending landscape has changed dramatically the past few years, and continues to do so. My job is to ensure client partners' loans close quickly, without surprises, and I take that responsibility very seriously. Referrals are a responsibility I appreciate; they're a measure of trust, and that trust must be earned every day, on every referral.
