A Message from Ted Rood:

"Bond markets TRYING to rally as stocks sell off. Is this the start of a move to lower rates?"

UPDATE: Bonds Bouncing Back on Tariff Talk and Treasury Announcement

About an hour ago, a headline concerning tariffs took a bite out of stocks ("US said to plan next tariff wave if Xi talks fail"). That didn't help bonds much though...

A few minutes ago, however, Treasury released bullet points on its borrowing estimates ahead of Thursday's official announcement. Long story short, they were a bit lower than the previous estimates. That's a good thing for bonds (less supply = higher prices = lower rates).

All that having been said, the stock sell-off and bond market reassurance hasn't been enough to get us back to 'unchanged' quite yet. 10yr yields are close and Fannie 4.0 are still nearly an eighth of a point weaker on the day.

Responsive service, experienced expertise

I've dedicated my 26 year mortgage career to client education, superior service, and honest answers. The lending landscape has changed dramatically the past few years, and continues to do so. My job is to ensure client partners' loans close quickly, without surprises, and I take that responsibility very seriously. Referrals are a responsibility I appreciate; they're a measure of trust, and that trust must be earned every day, on every referral.
