New Home Sales End 2016 on Negative Note

New home sales contracted sharply in December, more than reversing their November gain and ending the year at a slightly lower rate than that of the previous December. For the year as a whole however, 2016 sales were much improved over those in 2015.

The U.S. Census Bureau and the Department of Housing and Urban Development reported that sales in December were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 536,000. This was down 10.4 percent from the November pace of 598,000 (revised upward from an original estimate of 592,000) and off by 0.4 percent from the annual rate in December 2015.

Sales of newly constructed single-family homes over the entirety of 2016 were estimated at 563,000. This is a gain of 12.2 percent from the 501,000 homes sold in all of 2015.

Analysts polled by Econoday had expected an increase in sales in December and the actual number was well under the low end of the forecast range of 569,000 to 607,000 units. The consensus was 593,000 units.

On a non-seasonally adjusted basis there were an estimated 38,000 homes sold during the month compared to 42,000 in November. This was identical to the number of units sold in December 2015.

The median price of a home sold during the month was $322,500 compared to 299,000 in December 2015--a 7.3% increase. The average sales price was 384,000, up from 358,100 a year earlier.

At the end of the reporting period there were an estimated 259,000 homes available for sale. This is a 5.8-month supply at the current sales pace. Only 60,000 of the available homes are complete. Homes sold during December were on the market a median of 3.2 months.

Sales were down in three of the four regions but were 48.4 percent higher both month-over-month and year-over-year in the Northeast. The Midwest posted sales that were down 41.0 percent from November and 29.0 percent from December 2015.

In the South sales were unchanged from the previous December and down 12.6 percent for the month. There were only small losses in the Western region, down 1.3 percent from November and 2.0 percent on an annual basis.

Responsive service, experienced expertise

I've dedicated my 26 year mortgage career to client education, superior service, and honest answers. The lending landscape has changed dramatically the past few years, and continues to do so. My job is to ensure client partners' loans close quickly, without surprises, and I take that responsibility very seriously. Referrals are a responsibility I appreciate; they're a measure of trust, and that trust must be earned every day, on every referral.
