Home Price Gains Aren't Cooling Off

Both of the major price indices released this morning showed continued growth in home price appreciation. The S&P CoreLogic Case-Shiller National Home Price Index set its fourth consecutive record high, rising 5.8 percent in February, up from a 5.6 percent increase in January. The seasonally adjusted monthly gain was 0.4 percent.

The Housing Price Index provided by the Federal Housing Finance Agency gained 0.8 percent compared to January, up from revised 0.2 percent in January. On an annual basis prices were up 6.4 percent. Annual changes continued to be positive in all census divisions

Responsive service, experienced expertise

I've dedicated my 26 year mortgage career to client education, superior service, and honest answers. The lending landscape has changed dramatically the past few years, and continues to do so. My job is to ensure client partners' loans close quickly, without surprises, and I take that responsibility very seriously. Referrals are a responsibility I appreciate; they're a measure of trust, and that trust must be earned every day, on every referral.
